

15th December - Pink Fairy Armadillo

Hola Amigos! I'm from Argentina and I live in a snug sandy burrow. I'm known as a fairy armadillo because I'm quite teeny, only 15cm (6inches) long. Despite being little I'm a fab digger though-just look how massive my feet are compared to my body! I can almost swim through the sand. I generally only leave my home at night and I love to eat ants. Adios!

Today is known Gaudete Sunday because 'gaudete' means rejoice in Latin. Rejoice traditionally is the first word of the introduction to the Mass on the third Sunday in Lent. This day is a break from the sombre focus on Advent and a reminder that we are excited and joyful about the idea of Jesus coming, both in relation to Christmas and his final coming again
